Jesus and a forgiven woman

By: DR. WILLIAM L. TRIMYER

Lesson for February 17, 1980
Scripture Reference: John 8:1-20
Focal Passage: John 8:1-11
Exploitation of Women (John 8:1-5a)

Women today are raising their voices in defense of equal rights and personal recognition of their self-worth. Even in the realm of the church, women are declaring their rights under God to assume positions within the church traditionally held by men. The ERA is currently being debated on the senate floor in Richmond. And while this debate is being waged, women are constantly being sexually exploitated by the media.

Would Jesus be a supporter of the ERA were he with us today? Its probably fruitless to debate that question, but one thing we know is this: Jesus sought in his own ministry to affirm women as persons of worth.

In our study this week we note that a woman is brought to him and charged with adultery by her accusers. It is interesting that the man who participated in the adultery is not charged with any crime. No mention is made of him. It is at this point that Jesus sets the tone of equal rights and equal blame. In essence, Jesus challenges all forms of discrimination, particularly those discriminations based solely on sex.

Those who brought the woman to Jesus were trying to entrap him. Would Jesus condemn the woman and uphold the Mosiac law? Or, would he simply overlook the woman's sin and condone her sinful lifestyle? Jesus did neither, but turned to challenge the woman's accusers. What Jesus does is to transform a legal squabble into a moral issue.

The perplexing thing about this incident is the seemingly total disregard for the woman and her feelings. Her accusers made her into a public spectacle, setting her up to be ridiculed by the crowd. In their cunning efforts to destroy Jesus, they dragged a woman accused of adultery into the presence of Jesus.

Their purpose was to place Jesus in a difficult position, namely, if he disregarded the law, he would lose favor with the people, if he favored stoning the woman, (see Leviticus 20:10) he would be challenging the Roman law, which stated the Jews could no longer inflict death as a punishment for adultery. Jesus chose to challenge the accuser's right to condemn and his own right not to condemn.

Jesus chose not to exploit the woman and participate in her judgment to the satisfaction of her accusers.

The writing on the ground (John 8:6b-9)

The fact that Jesus stooped to write on the ground is interesting. Why did he do such a thing? Was it to show his disregard for those who accused the woman, or to spare the woman any further embarrassment? He was certainly trying to convey a message to those who sought to trap him and make a spectacle of the woman.

The phrase, "as though he heard them not," seems to suggest that Jesus was not really sure Jesus forgave the woman. What he does do is to challenge the woman to change her life and begin living a sin free life.

There is, of course, great lessons in this story for each of us, namely, we are never in a position, to condemn another person. We do more harm when we condemn when we could do great good by practicing loving acceptance. We are called to practice forgiveness and to help weary pilgrims in their struggles.

Dr. Trimyer is pastor of Elon Baptist Church in Pamplin, Va.

and embarrassement they no longer persued their goal to entrap Jesus and force his hand.

The compassionate Jesus (John 8:10-11)

Once again we see Jesus responding in his usual person-oriented fashion. Jesus was always concerned to forgive and affirm rather than curse and put down. The accusers fade from the scene and the woman is left standing alone with Jesus. He asks, "Where are those who sought to make you a public spectacle?". Of course, there was no one left to accuse her or to throw stones.

What a powerful drama this was before all the people who had gathered at the temple. By simple gesture the scribes and Pharisees were humiliated and sent away, stoned by their own judgment! How could they find this woman guilty when they themselves were guilty of their own crimes?

Jesus chose not to condemn the woman because he sensed her own struggles with remorse and guilt. Rather than pass judgment on her, Jesus simply says, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

From what he says, we are not really sure Jesus forgave the woman. What he does do is to challenge the woman to change her life and begin living a sin free life.

There is, of course, great lessons in this story for each of us, namely, we are never in a position, to condemn another person. We do more harm when we condemn when we could do great good by practicing loving acceptance. We are called to practice forgiveness and to help weary pilgrims in their struggles.

Local scouts to celebrate 50th anniversary Monday

Local Cub Scout Pack 546 will hold its Blue and Gold dinner Monday night at 6 p.m. in the Methodist church.

The highlight of the dinner will be displays tracing the heritage of the local Cub pack.

On hand to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Cub Scouting will be two three-generation cub Scout families: Isabelle Coleman, who served as a den mother, her son Dan, who was a Cub Scout, and his son Robbie, who is now a Cub. Also on hand will be Estelle Guthrie, who served as a den mother, her son Billy, who was a scout, and his son Terry, who is now a Cub Scout.

Other items tracing the heritage of the local Pack will be on display. Ellen Armentrout has a scrapbook donated by Mrs. Ben Marshall of her son Steve's days as a Cub Scout, as well as a collection of items made by Cub Scouts when Mrs. Coleman was a den mother.

Mrs. Ivy Holland, herself a den mother in 1950 and 1952, is currently working trying to locate the oldest surviving Pack leader.

Other residents, including Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Servis, Tom Shumaker, Sarah Summers and Dennis and Jeanette Drinkard will contribute to the observance of Cub Scouting's 50th anniversary.

Raiderettes defeated by Rustburg, Liberty

Fourth-quarter rallies by Liberty and Rustburg resulted in the varsity Raiderettes' seventh and eighth losses of this season in basketball action last week.

The Raiderettes, leading through the first three quarters against Liberty, could muster only four points in the final period of play while Liberty scored 22 to win the Tuesday-night contest, 50-35.

The Rustburg game was a seesaw affair with several lead changes, a 23-point fourth quarter giving the Rustburg team its 52-41 victory.

Against Liberty, Annette Carter was the Raiderettes' leading scorer with 15 points.

The Raiderettes jumped out to a 10-7 lead in the first quarter against Liberty. Annette Carter and Ruby Smith each scored three points in the first period of play, with Johnna Belcher and Susan Handy, who scored a field goal each.

The girls had built their lead to four points at the end of the first half, 22-18. Ruby Smith scored six points in the second quarter, followed by Annette Carter's four points and Rhonda Jaggers' two points.

The local team's lead held up through the third quarter, with the Raiderettes ahead 31-29 when that period ended.

In the fourth quarter, however, Liberty exploded for 22 points, including 10 points by P. Jackson. The Raiderettes garnered only four points, all scored by Annette Carter, who sank a field goal and two freethrows.

"We had a very poor fourth quarter, only one for eleven from the floor," coach Mary Tolley said. "We had a good aggressive defense throughout the game, but we just blew it in the fourth quarter," she added.

Tolley commended Annette Carter for her 15 points; five rebounds, six steals, and three assists. The coach also cited Rhonda Jaggers for her seven rebounds, as well as Debbie Smith for her eight rebounds, and Ruby Smith for her ball handling and her nine-point first-half performance.

The Raiderettes' leading scorer was Carter with 15 points, followed by Ruby Smith with 11 points, Rhonda Jaggers with five points, and Johnna Belter and Susan Handy, who had two points each.

The local girls went five for 15 from the freethrow line, for a 33 percent average. Leading scorer for Liberty was K. Dudley, who scored 15 points.

Friday night against Rustburg the Raiderettes engaged in a seesaw battle in which, once again, the fourth quarter saw the local team's undoing.

The Appomattox team trailed Rustburg by two points at the end of the first quarter, 12-10. At the end of the half, however, the Raiderettes had pulled ahead by two, and the score stood at 18-16 when the buzzer sounded, ending the half.

Rustburg pulled ahead by two at the end of the third quarter, leading 29-27, and in fourth quarter scored 23 points to take the game. The Raiderettes scored 14 points during the final period of play.

Only one player scored in double figures in Friday's game, Rustburg's Cindy Lewis, who totalled 12 points.

Three Raiderettes scored nine points; Debbie Smith, Susan Handy and Ruby Smith. Rhonda Jaggers scored eight in the game, and Annette Carter scored six points. The girls went 13 for 22 from the line for 59 percent.

The losses bring Appomattox's record to a 8-6 in the district, 10-8 overall, putting the Raiderettes in fourth place, at press time, with the tournament set to begin this week.

DEBBIE SMITH goes up for two points against Rustburg in Friday night's loss. She was one of three players to score nine points in the game, which the Raiderettes lost, 52-41.

Basketball tourney begins

The Seminole District Basketball Tournament will get underway next week, with girls' and boys' playoffs held from Monday, Feb. 18 to Saturday, Feb. 23 at Rustburg and E. C. Glass High Schools.

The girls' quarter finals will be held Monday at Rustburg High School. While the season was not complete at press time, Appomattox and Brookville with identical 8-6 records (as of Monday) will likely meet at 3 p.m. Monday afternoon in the new Rustburg gym.

The winner of that contest will face the team which wins the first place-eighth place matchup. The semifinals and finals will be held at E. C. Glass Feb. 21-23.

The winner of the Appomattox-Rustburg game will play its semifinal game Thursday night at 8:30 p.m., and the finals will be held Saturday night in E. C. Glass gymnasium, starting at 8:30 p.m.

Raiders beat Liberty, fall to Devils

Twenty-point-plus games by Shane Abernathy and Larry Kelso led the Appomattox varsity Raiders to a 59-50 win over Liberty last week, followed by a 77-63 loss to Rustburg Friday in basketball action.

Abernathy scored 24 and Kelso 21 in leading the Raiders to their tenth victory this season last Tuesday night.

The Raiders jumped out to a 17-15 lead in the first quarter, and played Liberty even throughout the second quarter, with the halftime score standing at 25-23, favor of Appomattox.

Liberty closed the gap in the third quarter, scoring 17 points to the Raiders' 16, and as the final period of play began, the Appomattox team held out a one-point margin.

An 18-point fourth quarter, matched by only 10 points from the Liberty squad iced the game, however, and when the buzzer sounded ending the contest, the Raiders were on top, 59-50.

With Abernathy and Kelso, Larry Woods scored in double figures, with 10 points, and David Pankey and Jonathan Pickett each scored two points. The teams played even on field goals, with each squad sinking 21 baskets. The difference was at the foul line, where the Raiders shot 17 for 25 for 68 percent, while Liberty shot eight for 17 for 47.1 percent. Shane Abernathy had a perfect night at the freethrow line, sinking ten of ten foul shots.

Abernathy also gathered in ten rebounds, as did Kelso. Tim Coles of Liberty captured game rebounding honors, pulling down 12 for his team.

Two players scored in double figures for Liberty, Coles with 16 points, and David Hurt with 13.

A powerful Rustburg team handed the Raiders their seventh defeat Friday night in the new Rustburg gymnasium, as the Raiders succumbed to a run-and-gun game accented by Red Devil floor sharpshooting.

Rustburg held a 15-9 advantage at the end of the first quarter, and never relinquished the lead. The Raiders had fallen behind 31-22 at the end of the first half, and the third quarter effort by the Raiders was not enough to halt the blazing Red Devils, and the final score stood at 77-63.

Larry Kelso recorded game scoring honors, with 27 points for the night. Terry Woods and Shane Abernathy joined him in the double-figure scoring bracket, with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Other Raiders scoring were Kim Humbles (6 points), Steve Cobb, Marvin Johnson, and David Pankey (two points each), and Johathan Pickett, who scored one point.

Larry Kelso also led in rebounds for the game, pulling in 13. Shane Abernathy got 10 rebounds, and David Pankey pulled in eight for the Raiders, as well.
